What is HTML Fundamentals

HTML is the foundation of every web page and is designed to be the standard markup language for documents to be displayed in browsers. This course, spread over 3 half days, will introduce you to the document object model, several types of HTML elements, and the DevTools offered by our browsers to debug any webpage. We will also dive into HTML by iteratively building our own webpage throughout the course. The subjects covered include creating our first HTML Page, debugging it via the DevTools Inspector, and getting to know a wide range of HTML elements.

Who should attend HTML Fundamentals

- Web Development Beginners: Those who are just starting their journey in web development.
- Frontend Developers: Developers who want to strengthen their HTML fundamentals.
- UX/UI Designers: Designers who want to better understand the structure of the web pages they design.
- Content Managers: Those who manage web content and want to understand the underlying HTML.

Prerequisites

No prior knowledge of HTML or web development is required. Basic computer skills and a willingness to learn are all you need!

Objectives

At the end of the training, you will be able to:

- Understand the principle of the document object model
