What is Jira in Practice

JIRA, a product of Atlassian, is an online development tool for Agile teams, with which you can identify issues and divide work in a clear way. With this practical training we will guide you through the technical details on how to create your own fully customized Project. Followed with a number of practical cases where you will setup your own boards to follow your work and create reporting and dashboards.

Jira has different types of users, with their own needs. To accommodate these different learning goals we spend dedicated time for your own role based challenge.

Who should attend Jira in Practice

Anyone who works with JIRA in an Agile work environment and is interested in gaining more knowledge of JIRA.
